Summerset stretches out

The residents at Summerset in the Vines, Havelock North are keenly watching as work proceeds on extending Summerset's recreation centre.

The recreation centre is the hub of their village. Manager Ted Jones says the extension will create extra space and provide a new kitchen and a cafe.

Residents have been looking forward to the time when they can gather in an area like this for a coffee and a meal with friends and family. The extension to the recreation centre will also provide better space for the many activities that are held there including Tai Chi, exercise classes, indoor bowls, a variety of indoor games and line dancing. The work is due to be completed by mid December in time for the Christmas functions. The new cafe will be open to the public as well and be available for outside groups to hold functions.
